

Austin Walter
Scott Rostron
Onan Chew

Project Owner: Dr. Warren-Seeger

University of South Carolina Aiken

Capstone Weekly Status Update 4

Modular Platform Design in Web Development

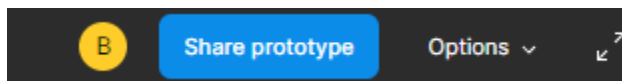

November 14th, 2023.

General Overview:

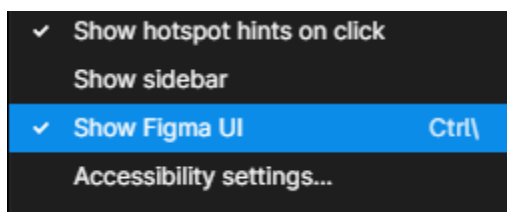

During the past two weeks (10/30/23 – 11/13/23) we have finalized the UX design and are moving into react design this week. The react design is going to move quickly because all designs are predefined, including layouts and CSS standards. Our to-do list is as follows: divi out work. This includes component and page creation, and back-end design. We are aiming for a complete split of work to maximize participation. Attached below are images for the finalized page designs. Those included are the ones that are for the front-end user and those that can physically fit within the document. Below the pages are the functional component designs.

Figma prototype:

When viewing prototype click “options”:

Then click “Show Figma UI” only if it is already checked to hide the UI, making viewing easier.

To view the mobile version, click the phone icon in the footer:

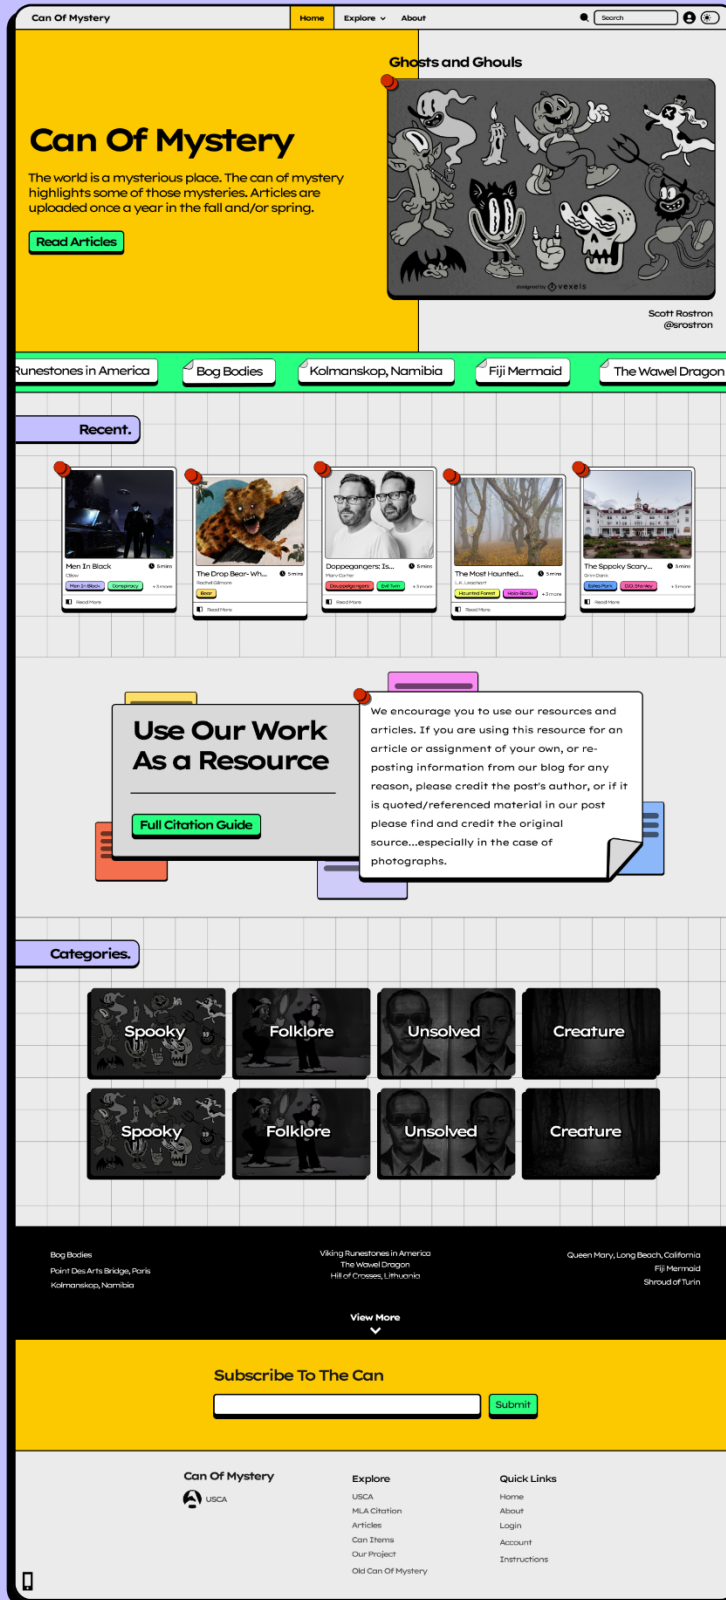

To view the desktop version, click on the PC icon in the footer:

To change between pages use the navbar, the available options are Home and Articles located in the drop down menu that can be accessed by clicking “Explore”

<https://www.figma.com/proto/wbWZt8kbpjh cTXEwsQyxXK/Untitled?type=design&node-id=101-289&t=YVp51kuWUFxrWoz0-1&scaling=min-zoom&page-id=0%3A1&starting-point-node-id=387%3A1716&mode=design>

Home Page

Home Page

Can Of Mystery

HomeExploreAbout

Search

Can Of Mystery

The world is a mysterious place. The can of mystery highlights some of those mysteries. Articles are uploaded once a year in the fall and/or spring.

Read Articles

Runestones in America

Bag Bodies

Kolmanskop, Namibia

Fiji Mermaid

The Wavel Dragon

Recent.

Use Our Work As a Resource

Full Citation Guide

We encourage you to use our resources and articles. If you are using this resource for an article or assignment of your own, or re-posting information from our blog for any reason, please credit the post's author, or if it is quoted/referenced material in our post please find and credit the original source...especially in the case of photographs.

Categories.

Spooky

Folklore

Unsolved

Creature

Spooky

Folklore

Unsolved

Creature

Bag Bodies

Point Des Arts Bridge, Paris

Kolmanskop, Namibia

Viking Runestones in America

The Wavel Dragon

Hill of Crosses, Lithuania

Queen Mary, Long Beach, California

Fiji Mermaid

Shroud of Turin

View More

Subscribe To The Can

Submit

Can Of Mystery

USCA

Explore

USCA

MLA Citation

Articles

Can Items

Our Project

Old Can Of Mystery

Quick Links

Home

About

Login

Account

Instructions

Can Of Mystery

Can Of Mystery

Can Of Mystery

The world is a mysterious place. The can of mystery highlights some of those mysteries. Articles are uploaded once a year in the fall and/or spring.

Read Articles

Runestones in America

Bag Bodies

Kolmanskop, Namibia

Fiji Mermaid

The Wavel Dragon

Recent.

Use Our Work As a Resource

Full Citation Guide

We encourage you to use our resources and articles. If you are using this resource for an article or assignment of your own, or re-posting information from our blog for any reason, please credit the post's author, or if it is quoted/referenced material in our post please find and credit the original source...especially in the case of photographs.

Categories.

Spooky

Folklore

Unsolved

Creature

Bag Bodies

Point Des Arts Bridge, Paris

Kolmanskop, Namibia

View More

Subscribe To The Can

Submit

Can Of Mysteries

Explore

USCA

MLA Citation

Articles

Can Items

Our Project

Old Can Of Mystery

Quick Links

Home

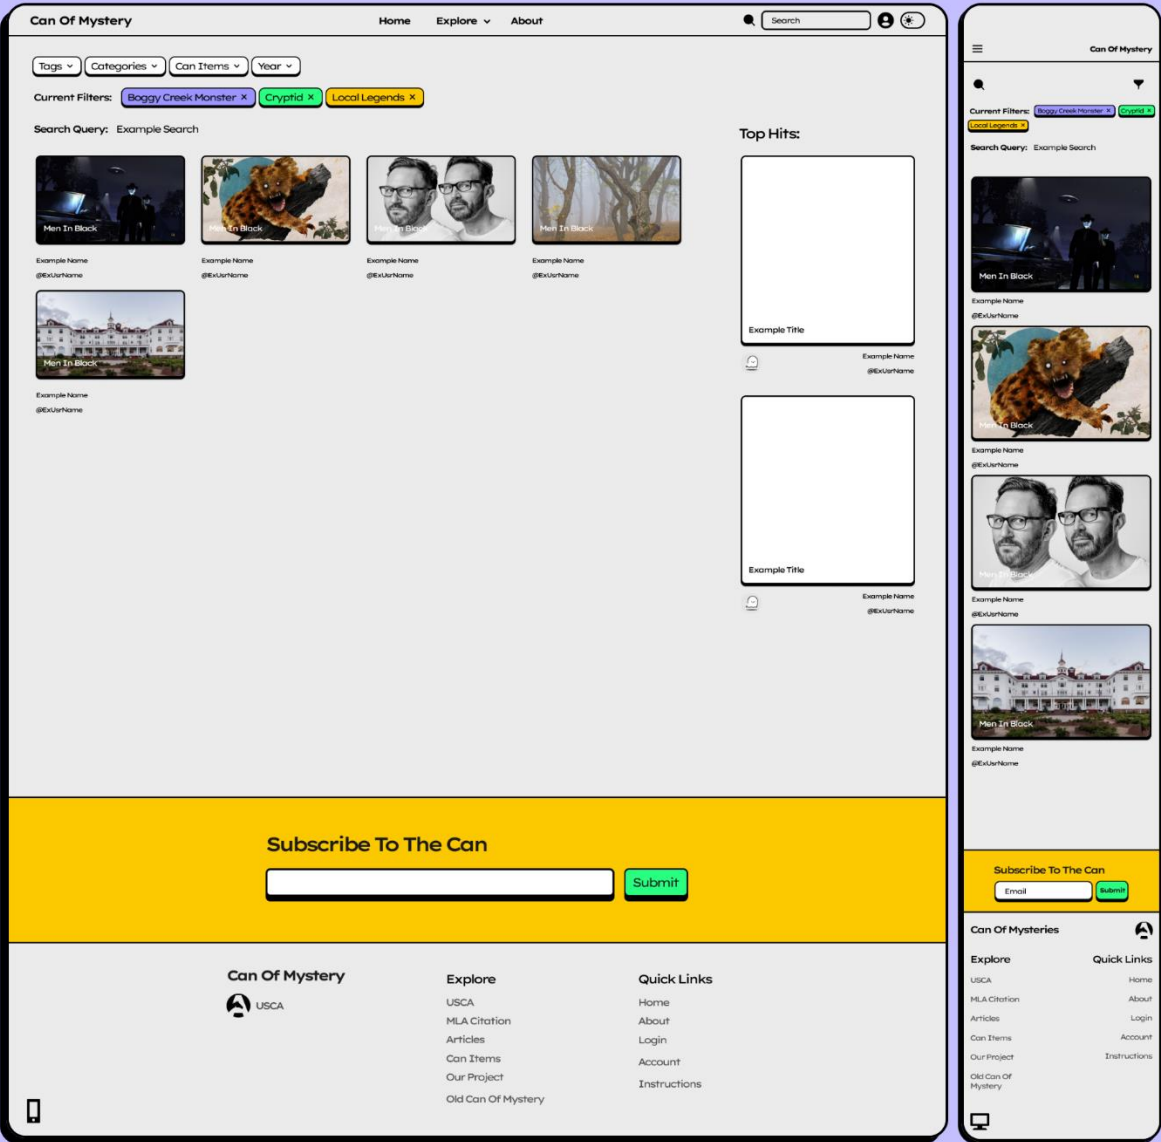

About

Login

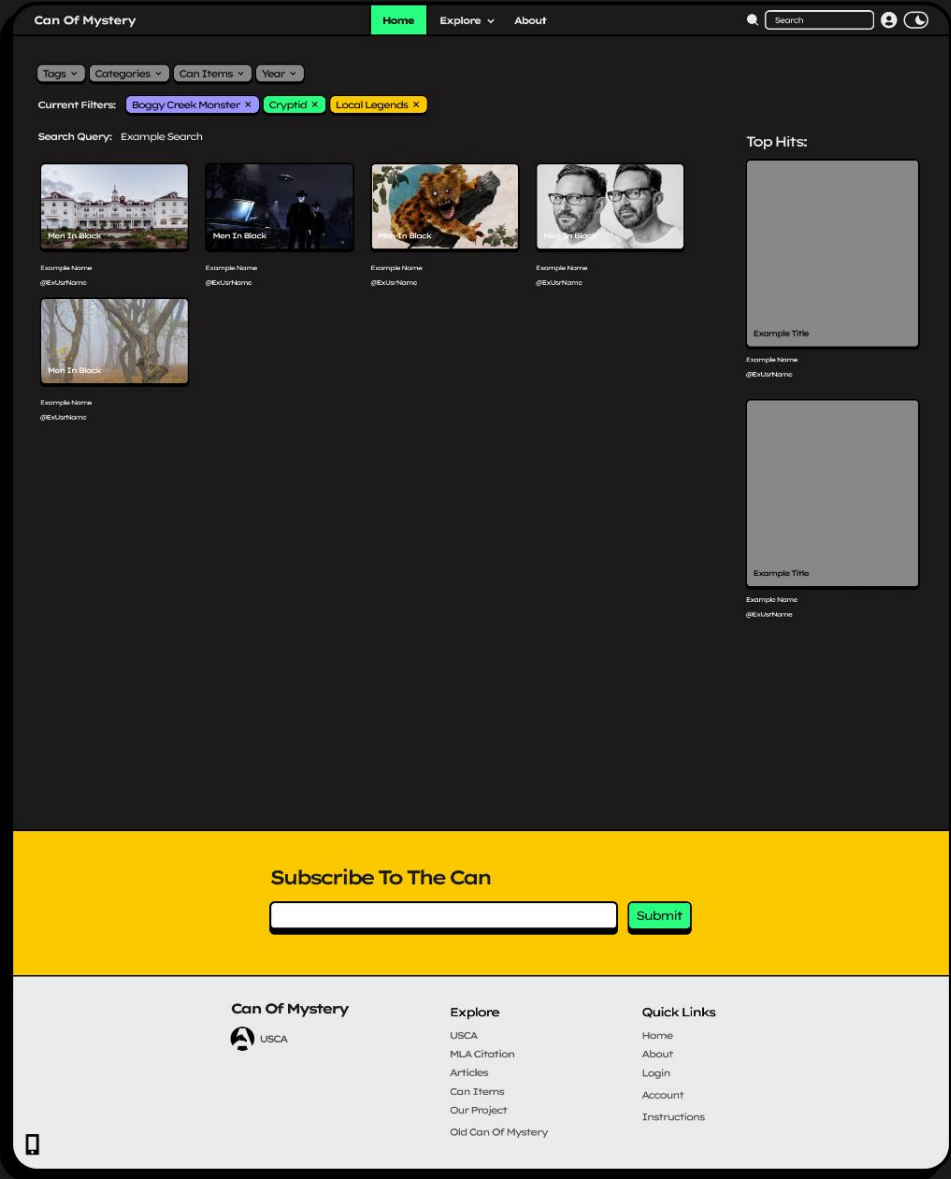

Account

Instructions

Search Page

Article Page

Article Page

Can Of Mystery

HomeExplore▼About

Search

Article

Citation

Links For Further Research

Tags

Related Articles

Men In Black

By: CBlaw

Posted: Friday, November 4, 2022

When you hear "Men in Black," you might think of Will Smith in the movie Men in Black. Some think of the Men in Black as a "secret" government agency, but most think of UFOs (Unidentified Flying Objects). Most people don't even believe that Men in Black nor UFOs exist. The first story that launched conspiracies about the Men in Black dates back to June 27, 1947, involving a man named Harold Dahl. Dahl was out gathering logs, when he saw "six donut-shaped obstacles hovering" (Justin Sablich) over him in his boat. Sooner than later, one of the obstacles fell, scattering debris and water, killing Dahl's dog. The next morning after the ordeal, Dahl was visited by a Man in Black who told Dahl not to speak of what he had witnessed, or else bad things would happen. The mysterious man was able to tell him what exactly had happened, frightening Dahl, which enticed him to tell others. He reached out to a magazine editor, who then reached out to a pilot named Kenneth Arnold, who had also experienced a UFO sighting. In July of 1947, "two Army A-2 Intelligence of ficers came to investigate." (Sablich) The next day, when the of ficers were leaving, their plane crashed, killing both of them. Was this just a coincidence? Or did it have something to do with the Men in Black?

Albert K. Bender was the man who really kicked the Men in Black Conspiracy into full gear. He was a ufologist and conducted multiple counts of paranormal research. Because of his love for paranormal activity, he formed the International Flying Saucer Bureau (IFSB). In November of 1952, Bender was at a local movie theatre in Bridgeport, Connecticut, when he noticed a "strange man with glowing eyes observing him." (Bielawa). Bender also noticed that there was an increasingly worsening stench of burning sulfur filling his attic. In July of 1953, he was paid a visit by three men in black suits. According to Bender, they communicated telepathically with him, demanding him to stop all UFO work and research. In October of 1953, the last issue from the IFSB Space Review was published, including a cryptic message and warning of those who are engaged in "saucer work to be very cautious" (Bielawa). The IFSB was shut down by Bender, obeying the Men in Black that had threatened him.

Bender's story attracted a UFO Magazine Publisher, Gray Barker. According to multiple sources, Barker was not considered the most factual reporter on UFO phenomena, as he was a "gifted writer with a gentle, understated sense of humor" (Radford). Barker wrote the book, "They Knew Too Much about Flying Saucers" and included Bender's story inside. The book elaborated upon the Men in Black and UFO conspiracy. For some it expanded their belief of the Men in Black existence, and for some it was just a goofy, fictional, book. After this book was released, more and more people started encountering The Men in Black.

So, what could be a possible explanation behind the Men in Black? Are they really a result of paranormal activity, or do they have nothing to do with claims of UFP? It has been reported that many people have experienced the Men in Black, when

Can Of Mystery

Men In Black

By: CBlaw

Posted: Friday, November 4, 2022

When you hear "Men in Black," you might think of Will Smith in the movie Men in Black. Some think of the Men in Black as a "secret" government agency, but most think of UFOs (Unidentified Flying Objects). Most people don't even believe that Men in Black nor UFOs exist. The first story that launched conspiracies about the Men in Black dates back to June 27, 1947, involving a man named Harold Dahl. Dahl was out gathering logs, when he saw "six donut-shaped obstacles hovering" (Justin Sablich) over him in his boat. Sooner than later, one of the obstacles fell, scattering debris and water, killing Dahl's dog. The next morning after the ordeal, Dahl was visited by a Man in Black who told Dahl not to speak of what he had witnessed, or else bad things would happen. The mysterious man was able to tell him what exactly had happened, frightening Dahl, which enticed him to tell others. He reached out to a magazine editor, who then reached out to a pilot named Kenneth Arnold, who had also experienced a UFO sighting. In July of 1947, "two Army A-2 Intelligence of ficers came to investigate." (Sablich) The next day, when the of ficers were leaving, their plane crashed, killing both of them. Was this just a coincidence? Or did it have something to do with the Men in Black?

Albert K. Bender was the man who really kicked the Men in Black Conspiracy into full gear. He was a ufologist and conducted multiple counts of paranormal research. Because of his love for paranormal activity, he formed the International Flying Saucer Bureau (IFSB). In November of 1952, Bender was at a local movie theatre in Bridgeport, Connecticut, when he noticed a "strange man with glowing eyes observing him." (Bielawa). Bender also noticed that there was an increasingly worsening stench of burning sulfur filling his attic. In July of 1953, he was paid a visit by three men in black suits. According to Bender, they communicated telepathically with him, demanding him to stop all UFO work and research. In October of 1953, the last issue from the IFSB Space Review was published, including a cryptic message and warning of those who are engaged in "saucer work to be very cautious" (Bielawa). The IFSB was shut down by Bender, obeying the Men in Black that had threatened him.

Bender's story attracted a UFO Magazine Publisher, Gray Barker. According to multiple sources, Barker was not

Subscribe To The Can

Submit

Can Of Mystery

USCA

Explore

USCA

MLA Citation

Articles

Can Items

Our Project

Old Can Of Mystery

Quick Links

Home

About

Login

Account

Instructions

Can Of Mystery

Home

Explore

About

Search

Can Of Mystery

Home

Explore

About

Search

USCA

Citation

odies Point D

Articles

Create Post

Our Project

Instructions

Old Can of Mystery

Subscribe To The Can

Email

Submit

Can Of Mysteries

Explore

USCA

MLA Citation

Articles

Can Items

Our Project

Old Can Of Mystery

Quick Links

Home

About

Login

Account

Instructions

Men In Black

5 mins

CBow

Men In Black

Conspiracy

+ 3 more

Read More

Can Of Mystery

Search

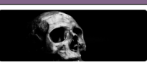

MLA

odies Poir

USCA

Articles

Create Post

Our Project

About

Instructions

Old Can of Mystery

Dark Mode

X

Year

Can Items

Categories

Tags

Full Citation Guide

Full Citation Guide

Recent Posts

Recent Posts

Read Articles

Read Articles

